

Q. Write a short summary of the poem, Wind.

Ans: The poem, Wind, has been composed by Subramania Bharati. No doubt we find that the poet is purely natural poet.

In this poem the poet requests the wind to blow gently. He urges the wind that not to blow slightly because it breaks the shutters of the windows. It throws our important books. It tears the pages of the book into pieces. But the wind neglects the urges of the poet. It also brings heavy rain. The strong wind mocks the human beings and destroys everything. The wind god makes fun of all the weak things like weak houses, bodies and hearts.

The poet finds that the wind does not listen the urgent words ~~at~~ them the poet suggests us to make our houses ~~strong~~ bodies and heart strong. If we become strong then the wind will become our friend. We find that the poet wants to tell us that iron cuts iron. Through this poem the poet preaches us that weak is neglected but when we become strong then we ~~re~~ shall resist and face the problems of our life.
